What MITCHELL Says

I want the people who read this paper to know that I sure have the best eating candy in Paris.

The chocolates I sell you for 40 cents per pound cannot be any better.

If you pay 60 or 80 cents you are paying for the fancy packing, of course I have candy we sell for 60 cents per pound and it is strictly fancy and fine, but I want to have every lover of good candy to try my 40 cent creams, always strictly fresh.

Don't forget to send me your orders for the only genuine Blue Lick Water. I am the wholesale 'agent for the Springs Co. and can furnish it fresh at all times. Yours truly.

THE VETERANS PARADED.

Twenty-Six Thousand Survivors of the Union Forces Were in Line.

Boston, Aug. 17.—Tuesday 26,000 survivors of the union forces of the civil war assembled from all sections of the United States, marched through the streets of Boston. Five and onehalf hours were required for the parade to pass a given point and it was a severe strain on the old soldiers, but generally they bore the hardship well. More than three score of them, dropped in the ranks from exhaustion and heat prostration and were cared for at the field and civic hospitals. The death of one soldier marred an otherwise happy day. Col. John P. Pyron, a member of John A. Dix post, of New York, died from heart failure | day. induced by exhaustion. At least 250 spectators, mostly women, walked during the parade, and many persons were slightly injured and had their clothing torn in the crush.

EX-WAR PRISONERS.

Col. Walker Elected Commander-in-Chief By the Association.

Boston, Aug. 16.—The camp fire of the National Association of Union Ex-Prisoners of War was held in Tremont Temple Monday night in connection with the 32d annual encampment of the association. Col. J. D. Walker, of Pittsburg, Pa., national commander of the associa- being punished saw the cruel flames tion, opened the evening's exercises in a brief address, and introduced Capt. John A. Read, U. S. N., who presided. Capt. Read recounted some of his experiences during an eight months' confinement in a confederate prison and he declared that the men who died miserably in military prisons were as heroic and did as glorious a work for their country as did those who charged the enemy in battle. Much time was taken up with a discussion as to whether the ex-prisoners would rather have a medal of honor or a pension from the United States. A motion asking the United States to issue a special medal of honor to all those veterans who had been in rebel prisons was lost, and it was almost unanimously voted to petition the next congress to pass a bill providing that every prisoner of war be paid two dollars for each day he was in prison. Late Monday afternoon the association held a business meeting and elected the following officers:

Commander-in-chief, Col. J. B. Walker, Pittsburg, Pa.; senior vice commander, John Kissain, Cincinnati; junior vice commander, John L. Parker, Lynn, Mass.; chaplain, Rev. J. C. Ferguson, Keokuk, Ia.

Worcester, Mass., Aug. 18.—Senator Hoar was resting quietly at 11:30 under the influence of opiates. He has suffered very little pain. Dr. Warren R. Gilman left the house at 10:30 o'clock. Gen. Rockwood Hoar said then there was no more reason to look for the end Wednesday night than there was at the same time Tuesday night. Senator Hoar's mind was perfectly clear up to the time the opiates were administered.

THE MAYOR FAILED.

Harrison Did Not Bring About Peace in the Strike.

Chicago, Aug. 16.-Mayor Harrison will attempt to settle the stockyards strike. He will meet the representatives of the strike and hear their side of the controversy. Later he will have a meeting with representatives of the packers and listen to their statement, and he will then undertake the task of reconciling the differences.

Chicago, Aug. 17.-With the stockyards strike entering on the sixth week of its existence Wednesday morning, peace seems further removed than ever. Mayor Harrison's effort Tuesday to bring about a conference met with a flat refusal from the packers. They insisted that they had the strike broken at all points outside of Chicago two and his head swung from side to and could not afford to temporize with the strikers now.

Tsingtau, Aug. 16.—The Russian battleship Czarovitch and three torpedo boat destroyers are now in the hands of the local German government for repairs, but it is improbable that these vessels will fight again in this war.

Passengers on board the steamer Decima, which anchored off Port Arthur Tuesday night, witnessed the bombardment from Pigeon bay. The Japanese shells were visible during their whole course. They circled, comet-like, to the town and their explosions were marked by great spalshes of fire which shot up into the sky. The bombardment from this and other points began at midnight and lasted until morning. The Russians did not reply to the Japanese fire. Maj. ## AMID GREEN TREES.

H. G. Davis Notified of His Nomination For Vice President.

Representative John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi, Delivered the Notification Address—A Reception and Cotillion in Evening.

White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., Aug. 18.-Henry G. Davis Wednesday was formally notified of and formally accepted his nomination by the democraitc party for vice president of the United States. The ceremony took place in the open air in the grounds of Green Brier White Suiphur Springs hotel and were marked by simplicity in every detail. Mr. Davis was escorted to the flag draped platform at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon by Representative John Sharp Williams, of Mississippi, who delivered the notification address. An invocation by Rt. Rev. Dr. W. L. Gravatt, of the Episcopal diocese of West Virvinia, preceded Mr. Williams, who occupied an hour in speaking. It took Mr. Davis ten minutes to read his formai acceptance. but he prefaced this with a heart to heart talk of like duration to the several thousand friends and neighbors who were gathered under the trees as his audience. Senator Daniel, of Virginia, was forced to acknowledge a demand for a speech but deciined happily and at 3:25 o'clock the ceremony ended.

Earlier in the day a formal letter of notification was handed Mr. Davis in the parlor of the hotel in the presence of the assembled notification committee. It was a simple statement of the action of the St. Louis convention with reference to his nomination. He took the letter without reading it and thanked the committee, saying he would respond later in the day and hoped for a victorious response in November.

A reception and cotillion in honor of the nominee was held in the hotel in the evening.

The day was a perfect one. The sun shone throughout and the pure air of the mountains stirred gently into cooling breezes. The scene of the ceremonies was ideally picturesque. Two huge oaks mingled their branches directly over the piatform of the speakers. Four others in a semi-circle in front furnished shade for the spectators, while the greensward of a lawn a hundred years old tempted the listeners to sit. The upward siope of the lawn on ail sides and the erection of a sounding board back of the stand made speech easy and the accoustics good. As a background for the whole were the surrounding Alleghenies forested in green.

Mr. Davis was the center of interest throughout the day. When it came his time to respond to the notification address he was kept standing some minutes while the audience expressed its enthusiasm. This affected Mr. Da-

To the strains of "Dixie" and a medley of patriotic airs, the assembiage dispersed; not, however, until many of its members had mounted the platform and extended personal congratulations to the candidate. The invited guests, including those in Mr. Davis' private party, who occupied a roped off reservation on the left, were the first to shake the senator's hand. Mr. Davis wiii remain at White Sulphur until Friday, when he will return to his home at Elkins. His pians for the campaign have not been fully matured.

MET ON THE CROSSING.

Four Persons Killed, One Fatally and 23 Seriously Injured.

Chicago, Aug. 18.—Four people were killed, another fataliy hurt, and 23 severely injured in a collision late Wednesday afternoon between an express train on the Chicago Great Western railroad and a train of three trolley cars bound for the Hawthorne race

The accident occurred at the crossing of 48th avenue, and the Chicago Great Western tracks. The train was coming into the city and, according to some witnesses of the accident, was running at a high rate of speed. Others and the train crew deciare that it was going over 20 miles an hour. The troiley train, which was made up of a motor car and two trailers, approached the crossing at a rapid rate just as the train came around a sharp curve to the west of the crossing. Motorman Ryan put on the brakes with all his strength in the effort to stop his car, but the brakes refused to work and with undiminished speed the motor car ran upon the tracks at the time the locomotive came up. The car struck the train between the engine and tender. The motor car was torn to splinters, the car immediately. behind it was knocked over, smashed nearly to pieces and dragged along the track for 100 feet. The third car was not dragged from the tracks, and but for the fact that the couplings between it and the second trailer broke the list of injured would probably be much greater, as all of the cars were filled with passengers. Motorman Ryan remained at his post to the last, and was fataily hurt, his skuil being fractured.

Ail of the persons who were killed occupied the seats in the front of the first car on the west side. One woman, who is as yet unidentified at the morgue, had just taken a seat offered her by William Tennis, of 1013 North Albany avenue, when the crash came. She was rolled under the motor car and horribiy mangled. Tennis, after giving up his seat, went to the rear of the car, and escaped with slight in-

PARIS EVENING GOWNS

TWO BECOMING AND USEFUL EVENING OR CARRIAGE WRAPS.

ARIS.—There can be no doubt whatever that dress over here is quite beautiful, and at the best receptions where well-known American women and English grandes dames congregate, one notices lovely toilettes and superb figures. The magnificent in dress seems to suit the ideally tail, slight American figure, and gives it an exceptionally distinguished appearance.

Evening reception gowns have been particularly gorgeous. There has been a great fancy for finest black Chantiliy lace over softest white satin and taffeta. This may sound somewhat inclined to dowdiness, but it is not so when well carried out.

Then the embroideries are really beautiful, while the mode of putting real stones on the front of the court bodice in stomacher style has a most regal effect

Let me describe a toilet in black and white for your benefit. It was made of the lightest make of Chantiliy lace over satin messaline, looped up Recent Reports Are to the Effect That on the hips in "Dolly Varden" style, and decorated with great choux of black velvet and pailletted centers. Two more choux were worn, one in the hair and one on the shoulder. Over the draped bodice of black Chantilly fell a wonderful bertha of beautiful point d'Aiencon, and on this were appliqued some motifs of the biack Chantilly.

These studies in black and white, devoid of colors, have a distinction all their own. But sometimes a successful note of color is struck in a black and white toilette by a cluster of dark red damask roses. A vivid touch of vieux-rose, too, introduced by means of carnations, is effective, and these flowers, I hear, are the cult in London as well as over here. When brought to perfection they are truly beautifui.

Strong colors are still worn in the evening, but the craze for dark blue accident to the refusal of the brakes seems to be fading. Mulberry color is worn a good deal; a very bright shade

The evening dress of painted chiffon, with little medallions of lace let in. is still in vogue. It is made in fluffy, ethereal style, held in place by a wellshaped Marie Antoinette corsage. By the way, the newest court bodices fasten up behind.

A good deal of lavender siik, satin and peau de soie is worn for smart afternoon and evening wear, and I predict that many toilettes composed of these fabrics in this color will be seen on the continent very shortly, made up with white embroiderd fichus or some old lace.

Pale green is holding its own for evening wear, particularly in tender tones of eau de nil. Charming aiso is taffeta changeant in blue and green mixtures. There seems to be but little change in evening dresses at the present moment, judging from the early autumn frocks which the leading conturieres are making for les belles Americaines and travelers passing through Paris.

The tulle and chiffon hat is conspicuous by its absence, and the pig picture hats for wearing at restaurants are mostly of lightest Panama chip and crinoline. The eighteenth century hat, with its pretty ribbon and floral decorations, is still worn with the afternoon muslin, but the elegantes will chiefly take on their travels for restaurant dining the high crowned picture hat of boid lines, with its long sweeping ostrich plume or a couple of beauti-

ELLEN OSMONDE

AMERICAN RICE IN CUBA.

Demand Steadily Increasing and a Monopoly of the Market Assured.

The introduction of American rice into the Cuban trade has had an auspicious beginning, and the salesmen who are introducing it confidently predict that within a year American rice will supply half the Cuban demand for this staple article of food and within two years will have practically a monopoly of the market. There are many iogical reasons why this should be so, among the most potent of which are the nearness of the American rice fields to the Cuban market. the various lines of transportation between guif ports and Cuba, the existence of reciprocai trade relations between the two countries, and an earnest desire on the part of the Cuban merchants to buy food products of the United States.

Perhaps in no country in the world floes rice enter into the daily consumption of food to a greater extent than in Cuba. Here ail classes consume it. Indeed, among the peasantry, or country people, where wheat bread is scarcely used at all, rice is veritably the "staff of life." It is eaten at every meai, and no one knows better than the Cuban housewife its varied and acceptable uses.

It has long been the custom with the provision houses of Cuba to purchase their rice in Hamburg and Liverpooi, but they are now showing a disposition to buy nearer home, especially in view of the fact that the cultivation of rice is rapidly becoming one of the leading industries in certain of the gulf states, and in view of the further consideration that the Cuban consumer, as he becomes acquainted with the superior quality of American rice, prefers it to the rice of India, China or Japan. In the comparatively smail sales thus far made of American rice in Cuba, it has given universal satisfaction, the people claiming that it possesses a richer flavor and greater nutriment than the eastern rice.

If the rice growers of South Carolina, Louisiana and Texas will make a determined effort now to capture the Cuban trade, they should, with proximity to the market and a preferentiai tariff in their favor, have little difficuity in winning against European competition. The time is propitious. MAX J. BAEHR.

GRAIN CROPS IN EUROPE.

General Conditions Are Favorable.

The European grain markets are at present chiefly ruled by news regarding the condition of the crops. The local press, however, notes as a curious fact that the European markets are influenced by American news to a much smaller degree than heretofore. This, they claim, is due to the fact that the European markets to not rely for their supplies mainly on the American re-

They claim that during a recent week. for instance, the imports of wheat from Argentina amounted to 116,300 tons; from Russia 6,300 tons; while the imports from the United States amounted to only 39,000 tons, which is less than the combined imports from Australia and India, amounting to 55,000 tons.

They argue that the quantities affoat from Argentina, Australia and India appear sufficient to supply the further import demands of the European markets, and that consequently the late rises in New York for early delivery, which they attribute to manipulations in Chicago. will have no influence on the European markets.

As regards the state of the growing crops in Europe, the recounts of the condition of the wheat crop in Austria-Hungary are of a favorable nature, which applies to both the summer and winter crops. In a few instances complaints were received from Bohemia about the undue amount of rain; while in Hungary, in some districts, more moisture is needed. These complaints, however, do not amount anywhere to any serious apprehensions respecting the condition of the crops. As regards the rye crops, the reports are iess tavorable. Almost from ail quarters compiaints are loud respecting the present state of the crops. It is claimed, however, that the damage is not of such a nature that it might not be remedied by subsequent favorable

The reports from Germany, France and Engiand are also said to be satisfactory. In Russia the crop reports are quite generally favorable, especially in the southern districts, where the showery weather of the last weeks proved

Mrs. George W. Bryan Dies.

Mrs. George W. Bryan, aged 56, of Millersburg, died at St. Joseph Hospital, in Lexington, Wednesday evening. Mrs. Bryan had been confined in the hospital for several weeks, and a few days ago in a fit of melancholy leaped from the secondstory, severely bruising herself, which no doubt hastened her death. Deceased is survived by her husband and one son, Chas. Bryan, and one brother, Hon. W. C. Owens. Services were held at the M. Church, at Millersburg, yesterday, by B. C. Horton.

Nothing Doing.

The Court House controversy, as we go to press, remains unsettled. Charles F. Wood, chief representative of the Bond Company, is here and has employed Breckinridge & Shelby as his legal repre-F. sentatives. Messrs. Crawford and Gib-Wheeler & Co., furniture dealers, pur- son's interest are being looked after bychased the Chappel residence on Second E.M.Dickson and an attorney from Logansport, Ind., while the county has employed McMillan & Talbot to assist County Attorney Denis Dundon.

Wednesday evening at 5 o'clock the following notice was served on Mr. Charles F. Wood, chief representative of the Bond Company, by Deputy Sheriff Win-

PARIS, KY., Aug. 17, 1904. To the United States Fidelity and Guarantee Co., Baltimore, Maryland:

You are again notified that the contract of Gibson & Crawford to construct the Bourbon County, Kentucky, Court House, having been cancelled and Gibson & Crawford having been enjoined from doing further work thereon and from entering upon the premises to work and from interfering with the work thereon you, as surety on their bond are required if you elect to carry out their contract and construct the Court House to begin the work promptly and prosecute it with diligence in as much as a great deal remains to be done, and the weather is now suitable for work and the building should be finished before it is exposed to the deteriorating effects of rain and the freezing and thaw ing of the approaching winter.

J. WILL THOMAS, Chairman of Building Committee of Bour-bon County Court House.

Bourbon County, by H. C. Smith, County Judge of Bourbon County.

Yesterday the Building Committee was in session and the Bond Company submitted a proposition looking to the early completion of the building. The matter was taken under consideration as the county desires to have some estimates made relative to the amount necessary to complete the work, and within the next few days some agreement will be reached whereby the work will be prosecuted with the Baptist Church next Sunday evening vigor and the house completed before the advent of bad weather.

WHEN THE TIDE CAME IN By EDGAR WELTON COOLEY

(Copyright, 1904, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

WEARY, but radiant with happiness, Clark Morgan walked raptaly up the street from the modest station building through the gathering twillght. A combination of fortunate sea. circumstances had enabled him to conclude his business affairs 24 hours sooner than he had anticipated, and he had thus been enabled to reach home on the evening of his wife's birthday.

This fact added elasticity to his steps and buoyancy to his spirits. He had a little present for Gertrude tucked away in his grip, an inexpensive little bauble, but one she had long desired.

He planned to slip in upon her and take her by surprise. Then he would present her with the gift, and they would sit under the maples and watch the darkness deepen, see the fireflies arlse from the grass and hear the booming of the beetles through the gloom, and the splashing of the sea upon the rocks.

Quietly he slipped through the gate, when he reached the summer cottage, crept silently across the lawn, and entered noiselessly at the side door.

The living room was vacant: the last rays of the sun struggled through the lace curtains and kissed the ceila deep silence relgned everywhere-a silence perfumed by a vase of liliesof-the-valley on the table.

For a moment he paused in the center of the room, then a slight rustle from the parlor reached him, and he

Softly he stepped to the portieres and, drawing one of them slightly, peeped through the narrow opening.

Gertrude stood near the piano. At her side was James Bernard. His arm encircled her waist; her arms were around his neck; her head was slightly bowed; his lips were pressed against her forehead.

James Bernard was Clark Morgan's closest personal friend. The latchstring at the Morgan home had always been out to him.

Silently the portiere slipped from the husband's fingers and blotted the picture from his sight. For a moment he stood immovable, and a thousand thoughts passed through his mind. Then he turned his head and glanced out the window, gazing for miles across the restless sea. On the far horizon rested a jagged rock-Fisherman's Point-like a grim monument to his dead happiness. From the sea a deep gloom swept toward him. He stretched forth his arms as though to welcome it. If it were only everlasting oblivion!

Again his glance rested upon Fisherman's Point. It was sinking from sight; the tide was rising. It would go down into the sea and the waves would sweep over it, like the waves were sweeping over him. But on the morrow it would rise again, even as he would when the great sorrow had passed.

Thinking thus, he crept out again into the shadows, and when he returned it was with a merry whistle and a radiant smile. His wife met him at the door and he kissed ner and extended his hand to Bernard.

"How nice that we can all spend the evening together, 'he said; "it will be a pleasant ending to Gertrude's birth-

He smlled at his wife, but her eyes dropped before his, and he thought he saw the suspicion of a blush upon her

"Yes," replied Bernard, carelessly. "I dropped in to congratulate Mrs. Morgan upon her anniversary."

"A kindness we both very much appreciate, I am sure," Morgan answered. "and, my dear," he added, smiling pleasantly at his wife, "I have planned a little diversion for to-morrow. They say angling is fine off Fisherman's Point, and I suggest we three-now don't say you can't spare the time,

"How delightful!" exclaimed Mrs. were strictly sober.

Morgan, jubilantly. "Of course you will go, Mr. Bernard?"

"Of course," insisted Mr. Morgaz. "Of course," insisted Mr. Bernard,

The sunshine fell brilliantly upon the sea, kissing the waves that lashed the base of Fisherman's Point into a spray of diamonds. Above, the sky arched, a blue canopy. The air, tempercd by the salt moisture, was cool and pleasant

The three, in Clark Morgan's sail boat, anchored just off the Point, fished and laughed, and were jolly. And Morgan was the merriest of them all. The others were kept laughing at his witticisms.

He had his kodak with him, and he took several shots at the rocks, the gently swelling waves, and at the only boat that passed during the afternoon.

When the tide began rising, Morgan was the first to note the slowly upward creeping of the sea upon the rocks. A smile trembled upon his lips and a strange fire burned in his eyes. From the locker of the boat he produced a bottle of champagne, and, pouring out three glasses, handed one each to his wife and Bernard. Then, raising his own, he said:

'Here is to Love that is true, Here is to Honor, that's real. Love and Honor and you-

A trinity stamped with God's seal." He touched the glass to his lips, but the others, astounded, hesitated. "Why don't you drink?" he cried:

why don't you drink to love and honor—the twin stars in life's diadem? No other virtues are so blessed or so rare as love and honor!"

The words were spoken as though in pleasantry. Not the suspicion of a sneer accompanied them; not a spark from the fire that was consuming his soul, was visible. So, together, they drank the toast, and when they had finished, Morgan broke his glass upon the boat's rail and watched the pieces sink into the

The tide was now rising rapidly. Already the lowest crevices on Fisherman's Point were under water.

Suddenly Clark Morgan glanced at his wife. "My dear," he said, "I was thinking what a beautiful picture I could take if you and Bernard would pose for me a moment on the rocksyou, kneeling in your white gown, my dear, and Bernard, in this robe, holding this cruicifix in hls hand, with the waves all but kissing your feet, and the broad sea in the background."

As he spoke, he unrolled a package he had taken, with the champagne, from the locker, and now held up & priest's robe and beads.

"Bravo!" cried Bernard, enthusiastically. "You are a thorough artist, Clark; it is a splendid conception."

"See, my dear," he said, "the tide is nearly to where we stand. Now kneel right here, your hands clasped so, and your eyes turned upward, so; that's right. Now, Bernard, hold the crucifix, there, tnat's right; ah, that's perfect. Throw your head back a little more, Gertrude, so your hair will fall. over your shoulders more, there. Now, I'l sail away from the rock a few rods, so as to get a better focus. Ah, this is going to be one of the triumphs of my life."

Talking cheerily as he clambered over the rocks, Morgan descended to the boat and hoisted sail. Twenty yards from the Point he put the helm about, and the boat turned its bow gracefully towards the far away shore. A light breeze was blowing landward, and before this he slowly sailed. making no pretense to check his

After 15 minutes or so, he glanced back at the man and woman on the rocks. His wife had risen to her feet and stood with her face towards him. He could see the startled look in her

He waved his hand at them. "Behold!" he cried, "purlty and godliness upon a granite pinnacle!"

A half hour passed before he again looked back. Gertrude and Bernard were standing upon the topmost point of rock, and the tide was nearly at their feet. With the aid of his glass he could see the look of horror on the woman's face and the desperation in the eves of the man.

His wife's hair was shining wet with the dashing spray, and tears glistened upon her cheeks.

Then the twilight deepened, deepened, and finally Fisherman's Point was but an indistinct dot upon the horizon, with miles of foaming sea on every side.

But, in his drifting boat, Clark Morgan sat and watched Fisherman's Point through his glass. He saw the man clasp the woman in his arms; he saw the woman put her hands to her eyes as though to shut out the sight of death creeping nearer, nearer; he watched the tide rise to their knees, to their waists, to their shouldersthen the darkness became so heavy he could not longer distinguish them from the spray.

From the locker he took another bottle of champagne. Filling a glass with the sparkling liquid, he extended It toward the dense gloom that enshrouded the Point and cried:

'Here is to Love that is true; Here is to Honor that's real. 'Love and Honor and you-

A trinity-" During the night a sail boat drifted upon the mud banks, where fishermen here and there in the desert of buildfound it. In the bottom was the dead body of a man. "Heart disease," pronounced the learned coroner, solemnly.

It is about 40 years America has displayed interest in the development of city parks, and this period is marked by much splendid work in the extension and beautifying of urban pleasure grounds. Widely-known Central park has cost New York $15,000,000, to-day has a real estate value of $200,000,000, but its value to the people is infinite. Some figures may indicate the scope of the benefit: It contains 400,000 acres of wooded grounds, has nine miles of carriage way, over 28 miles of walk, and bridle paths of five miles' length; there are 30 buildings on the grounds, and seats for 10,000 people. Clean Boy and Dirty Boy Do Terrible Things to Each Other by Signs.

Among the passengers on a Ninth avenue elevated train going up town the other day was a boy of 15 in jump. ers, with very grimy face and hands. He looked like a plumber's apprentice or a small beginner in a machine shop, relates the New York Sun.

Opposite to him sat another boy of about the same age and build, but very spick and span, with a strictly washed "club houses for the masses," social face and a neat business suit. He centers for the congested districts. had a thick package of papers, and This is a decided departure in the way looked as if he were starting in life

The two seemed to pay no attention recreation places. But, not so very to each other until the Twenty-third street station was reached and there the grimy boy got off. He promptly stepped back along the platform until he stood behind the other boy, who was sitting with his back to the platform. Then he tapped on the glass-it had been raining and the car windows were closed.

The clean boy looked around, whereupon the dirty one squared off in prize ring style, and beckoned to the clean boy to come out and settle it then and there, and went through a series of feints, parries and punches, plainly designed to show what a sad thing it would be for the clean boy if he accepted the invitation.

The clean boy grinned, and, stretching bis coat sleeve over his arm, "put up a muscle," shaking his fist as if it were a battering ram, at his adver-

The dirty boy danced around the platform, hitting right and left and shaking his head as if taking punishment, and giving it back to the atmosphere with compound interest.

The clean boy arched his left arm as if he had his opponent's neck in chancery, and swung his right with damaging speed and vigor upon the spot where the other boy's face

Then the train started. The terrific conflict lasted about 30 seconds. As long as the two boys could see each other they made faces, and gave plastic demonstrations of their hatred and contempt for each other.

The clean boy relapsed into his seat with a sigh of refreshment. The struggle had done him no end of good. He grinned good humoredly at a sourlooking woman in the cross-seat, who looked as if she would have liked to own him just for five minutes.

HIGH-POWER MICROSCOPES.

One That Enlarges the Eye of a House-Fly to an Area of 312 Square Feet.

All who use the microscope are aware that the limit of its magnifying powers is soon reached. Beyond a certain point the image becomes indistinct, large but not clear, and the imperfections of the instrument are ed as well as the object. Prof. Dolbear has observed that "the powers of the microscope have not been doubled within the last 50 years, though more time and ingenuity have been given to the problem of improving it than will ever be given in the same interval again." It is dangerous, however, to prophesy, says the London Telegraph. One of the exhlbits at the Royal society's conversazione seemed to mark a very distinct advance. Mr. J. W. Gordon showed a high-power microscope which had in the view-field of the ordinary instrument a rotating glass screen, and this, viewed through a second microscope, gave a further magnification of 100 diameters. The ground-glass screen, by expending the transmitted light wave, causes it completely to fill the aperture of the second microscope, so that the usual imperfections of excessive magnification disappear. A diaton was magnified 10,000 diameters, and its structure was clear and well defined. With the same magnification the eye of a house-fly would seem to cover an area of 312 square feet.

THE POWER OF MIMICRY. As Presented in Public Oftentimes It Amounts Merely to a Species of Boring.

The power of mimicry deserts the average man at the same time, and for the same reason, as the power of parody. says the London Saturday Review. Before he is 20 the average youth can catch, more or less recognizably, the solicited. tone of voice and the tone of mind of his friends. Later his own mind acquires so distinct a tone, and he becomes so accustomed to his own voice, that his efforts at mimicry (if he make any) are dire failures. Occasionally, however, a man retains the knack even in his prime and even though he has a distinct individuality. In him, and in him alone. we behold the complete mimic, The mimlery is a form of criticism, and a distinct indlviduality—a point of view -is as needful in the mimic as in the critic. Mimicry is a mechanical reproduction of voice and gesture and facial play is a mere waste of time and trial of patience. Yet that Is the kind of mimicry that is nearly always offered us. A man comes upon the platform and reproduces verbatim some scene of a recent play exactly as it was enacted by this or that mimic. If he were a parrot the effect would be amusing, for it is odd to hear a bird uttering human inflections. But he happens to be man, and so we are merely bored.

The Unhappy History of Holand Under Kussian Kule

breaking up of the once large Polish territory, to the slices lopped off by Austria, Russia and Prussia, to the final entire absorption of the country by the Russians. And to-day two opposing parties, the nationalists and the socialists, seem to find it very difficult to agree on any national policysave the one of continued bitter hostility to the Russian government.

That a nation which had existed for 800 years, been counted for that period

KOSKIUSZKO. of time a considerable European power, should utterly disappear, have no longer place among the sovereign powers, would arouse even in the most indifferent some degree of wonder. It is not easy to attempt in a limited space to give explanation of the steps leading to the fall of Poland, but a review of some of the causes, a glance at some important events in the long period of its life, may suggest the outline of the story. The history of Poland as a nation is a story of great heroes and of interested plotters, of noble arrayed against peasant, of foreign interference and foreign spoliation, of a disrupted, distressed land albeit a fairly rich, fertile one. Back in the middle of the seventeenth century the territory extended from the Baltic to the Carpathian mountains, had an area of almost 300,000 square miles, about seven times its extent today. It was a diversified land of good soil, fine timber, wide pasturage, and of no small mineral wealth, and its people, especially along in the fifteenth and sixteenth centuries, enjoyed a high measure of prosperity. The nobles lived in luxury, music and learning were made much of, the state was a dominant power.

About the middle of the sixteenth century the government took a step leading to disaffection among a large body of the people, inaugurated a change from the hereditary monarchy to an elective crown. To settle the strife arising from this raidcal move, the aggrieved party would call upon an outside nation to assist in the ensuing war, and the ally seldom failed to demand a share of the spoils when victory came the right way.

Another weakness leading to Poland's downfall was the lack of a middle class, "that bulwark of a nation;" ruling noble and peasant serf forming the two Polish classes, the trading Jews standing apart by themselves. Little by little the noble encroached upon the peasants' few rights, and pitiable indeed became the condition of this large body of people. Naturally there was not much in their situation to foster patriotism for their native land. The lord had power of life and death over his serf: if a master killed a serf, a fine freed him. Each noble was master in his own territory, and in time became in national patriotism. The clergy, also, had no small part in Poland's downfall, being intolerant, given to persecution of other sects; dealing summarily with the Greek Catholics and adding fuel to the enmity of Rus- a population of 10,000,000. Poles form sia, persecuting the Protestants and arousing the hatred of Germany, and the other races there are many Gerwant of a natural frontier made possible, and invited, encroachments of conquerors from without.

Poland and Germany were at odds from the first, in the early days of church, and the Germans generally Polish dependency on Germany; and are of the Protestant faith. the hostility was furthered by the presence in the towns of Poland of so been difficult to assimilate many German residents, and by the folly of having allowed the Teutonic knights to settle in Polish territorywhence sprang the great kingdom of Prussia. Russia appeared as a formidable and decided antagonist later than the Germans, during the reign of Ivan the Terrible, who presented himself a candidate for the new place of electoral monarch. A strong Polish prince, Stephen Batory, proved a match, however, for Czar Ivan; not only defended Poland, but also ceaselessly labored to bring about the dismemberment of Russia. This prince it was that first organized the Cossacks, a name closely linked with Russian and Polish history. A Pole was really crowned czar of Moscow, but soon the Poles were forced to give up their claims to Russian territory; a territory between which and that of Poland there was ever such a dangerously indefinite line, making fruit- to India. But it is not likely that any of ful cause for the "domestic feud of the two Slavonic nations." In 1772 Russia entered into agreement with Prussia and Austria to begin the dis-memberment of Poland, and the Russians at once began hostile invasion of the country. Steadily they pushed on their boundary, by 1793 having made much advance.

The Polish people, as is well known. did not submit tamely to the stretching of the paw of the Great Bear nor to the claims of greedy Prussia. A national spirit showed itself now, a patriotism of decided strength. Thaddeus Koskiuszko, a general of recognized merit, led his countrymen against the Prussians in possession of Warsaw, and forced the invaders to come to terms. But a Russian general hastened to the capital, the brave leader was taken prisoner and his cause lost. He was carried to St. Petersburg, and there held captive until the death of Catherine of Russia, and 759 by electricity. a sovereign who did her share to-

He was a cultured. accomplished man, but lacking in force and spirit. The proud Polish nobility, however, did not submit tamely to the Russian rule, and in 1830 insurrection broke out, the plot including the seizure of the Russian grand duke, Constantine, in the palace at Warsaw. Plots in succeeding years resulting in failure, these movements brought upon Poland sad disaster, added oppression. Poland's modern record is, in brief. as follows: A separate constitution. 1815-'30, and a separate government, 1830-'64; in the latter year loss of administrative independence, and four years afterward it becomes an integral part of Russia. He Had Too Much Intellect to Be "Hove Away" on a Doctor.

The fish-man drove into the yard a few days after the new summer residents had taken possession of their home, and seeing an open door he stepped in and confronted the mistress of the house, relates Youtn's Companion.

"Gettin' settled, I s'pose," he said, agree-

"Gettin' settled, I s'pose," he said, agreeably, allowing his gaze to wander from two half-unpacked trunks to a table loaded with miscellaneous articles. "Well, take your time, take your time; there's plenty of it up here! I understand your husband's a doctor, ma'am?"

"Yes, he is," said the summer resident, who in spite of warnings from city neighbors that she had better display no haughtiness of spirit under questioning, was unable to put much cordiality into her tone.

"Well, now, I come near bein' a doctor," said the fish-man, still with a wandering gaze. "My folks wanted I should be one, all exceptin' of an aunt that had money, and was looked to to help me out financially if I took up with a profession. She spent one summer here, and she made a reg'lar study of my character an' parts, and at the end of the season she up an' told my folks that 'twouldn't do, I must go into business.

"That boy has got too much intellect to be hove away on a doctor," she said; those were her very words. Now how would you like a couple o' good mack'rel all slit up an' ready for the br'iler?"

Voice from Arkansas. Cleveland, Ark., August 15 (Special).—
Nearly every newspaper tells of some wonderful cure of some form of Kidney Disease by the Great American Remedy, Dodd's Kidney Pills, and this part of Arkansas is not without its share of evidence that no case is too deeply rooted for Dodd's Kidney Pills to cure.

Pills to cure.

Mr. A. E. Carlile, well known and highly respected here, tells of his cure after nearly a quarter of a century's suffering. Mr. Carlile says:

"I want to let the public know what I think of Dodd's Kidney Pills. I think they are the best remedy for sick kidneys ever made.

made.
"I had Kidney Trouble for 23 years and never found anything that did me so much good as Dodd's Kidney Pills. I recommend them to all sufferers."

There is no uncertain sound about Mr. Carlile's statement. He knows that Dodd's Kidney Pills rescued him from a life of suffering and he wants the public to know it. Dodd's Kidney Pills cure all Kidney ills from Backache to Bright's Disease.

Hughson, of Chicago, whose letter follows, is another woman in high position who owes her health to the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I suffered for several years with general weakness and bearing-down pains, caused by womb trouble. My appetite was fitful, and I would lie awake for hours, and could not sleep, until I seemed more weary in the morning than when I retired. After reading one of your advertisements I decided to try the merits of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I am so glad I did. No one can describe the good it did me. I took three bottles faithfully, and besides building up my general health, it drove all disease and poison out of my body, and made me feel as spry and active as a young girl. Mrs. Pinkham's medicines are certainly all they are claimed to be."—Mrs. M. E. Hughson, 347 East Ohio St., Chicago, Ill.

Mrs. Pinkham Tells How Ordinary Tasks Produce Displacements. Apparently trifling incidents in woman's daily life frequently produce displacements of the womb. A slip on the stairs, lifting during menstruation, standing at a counter, running a sewing machine, or attending to the most ordinary tasks may result in displacement, and a train of serious evils is started. The first indication of such trouble should be the signal for quick action. Don't let the condition become chronic through neglect or a mistaken idea that you can overcome it by exercise or leaving it alone.

More than a million women have regained health by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If the slightest trouble appears which you do not understand write to Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass., for her advice, and a few timely words from her will show you the right thing to do. This advice costs you nothing, but it may mean life or happiness or both.

Mrs. Lelah Stowell, 177 Wellington St., Kingston, Ont., writes:

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham: — You are indeed a godsend to women, and if they all knew what you could do for them, there would be no need of their dragging out miserable lives in agony.

"I suffered for years with bearing-down pains, womb trouble nervousness and every eight head.

womb trouble, nervousness, and excruciating headache, but a few bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound made life look new and promising to me. I am light and happy, and I do not know what sickness is, and I now enjoy the best of health."
Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable

Compound can always be relied upon to restore health to women who thus suffer. It is a sovereign cure for the worst forms of female complaints,—that bearing-down feeling, weak back, falling and displacement of the womb, inflammation of the ovaries, and all troubles of the uterus or womb. It dissolves and expels tumors from the uterus in the early stage of development, and checks any tendency to cancerous humors. It subdues excitability, nervous prostration, and tones up the entire female system. Its record of cures is the greatest in the world, and should be relied upon with confidence.

$5000 FORFEIT if we cannot forthwith produce the original letters and signatures of above testimonials, which will prove their absolute genuineness.

Fine Bourbon County

FOR SALE.

As Administrator of G. G. White, deceased, and agent for his heirs, I will, at 11:30 o'clock a. m., on town-not much business transacted on examination it is expected that the Post- Monday, September 1th, 1904, offer at public sale, in front of the Court-House, in Paris, Ky., the fine Bourbon County farm known as the Gilt Edge Stock Farm, the property of the late G. G. White, situated on the Paris & North Middletown Turnpike, near the City limits of Paris, and con taining  $547_{\frac{1}{2}}$  acres of land.

This is a No. 1 Bourbon County farm.

It is all under cultivation except about 150 acres of virgin soil, which is heavily set in bluegrass, making splendid grazing and is unexcelled for tobacco. Plenty of stock, water in dryest season. Has benefit of creek boundary, but no creek included in survey. part of farm overflows. Creek line furnishes unfailing stock water and saves fencing.

The farm residence is one of the best story brick house, colonial in style, with front veranda supported by masmade to the class having the minimum the house. Rooms and halls spacious rate of pay and promotions from the and well lighted Cellars, large light and largely in hard. sive columns which rise to the eaves of

Two first class cisterns at residence, and all necessary outhouses. Splendid stock barn with large number of box stalls, and good training track. Paddocks with good stallion stables adjoining barn, and an inex-haustible artesian well at the barn door.

ALSO, A GOOD TWO-STORY FRAME RESIDENCE of 6 rooms and front and back porches.

Everything in fact for a first-class stock

The Paris Distillery Company has for years past paid $300.00 per year for privilege of pumping water from Stoner Creek, and $300.00 per year for depositing offall from cattle pens in the natural basis near the Distillery. The purchaser can protably continue these privileges—either or both—indefinitely, adding $600.00 to annual income from the farm.

This farm is well suited for the large handling of cattle because of proximity of distillery.

I will first offer the farm in two parts and then as a whole, reserving the right to accept or reject any bid.

Division No. 1 contains 271.93 acres, including the brick residence, stock barn, track, and all adjacent improvements, and fronts on the North Middle. town pike and extends back to Stoner Creek, and is bounded on one side by G. W. Wyatt, and on the other side by Division No. 2. This tract contains the natural basins in which the distillery deposits offall from cattle pens, paying

$300.00 annually for the privilege
Division No. 2 contains 276 70 acres, bounded by the Distillery property on the North, by the Mayeville railroad and Stoner Creek on the West, by Stoner Creek on the South, and by Division No. 1 and Stoner Creek on the East. The frame residence is on this tract, and the Distillery Company pays $300.00 per annum for the privilege of pumping water over this tract from Stoner Creek—an income of $300 per year without injury to the land. The surveyor's field notes and plat of entire farm and of the above two Di visions may be seen at the Citizens Bank in Paris, Ky.

In event of the farm selling in the above two divisions the right to use the passway from Division No. 2 over the land of Mrs Frank Fithian out to the Maysville pike, opposite the G. G. White Distillery, in East Paris, will be included in conveyance of Division

Purchaser hos privilege of seeding the coming Fall, and full possession given March 1, 1905.
